

WATER MEETINGS MONDAY-TUESDAY

Two Conferences Will be Held to Hear Various Propositions.

IS THE BIG QUESTION

Hundreds of Citizens Will Attend; Will Name Committees.

Citizens' mass meetings for the purpose of making the solution of the water problem a reality instead of a dream will be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 11 o'clock Monday and Tuesday afternoons of this week, according to an announcement made yesterday by the advisory water committee that is assisting the city officials in determining upon a plan to pursue in giving the city an adequate supply of pure water.

It was first decided yesterday to postpone the Monday meeting until Tuesday, after word had been received that parties from Indiana would be here on Tuesday to submit a proposition, but later it was found that Fort Smith, Ark., people had planned to appear before the committee Monday, and accordingly arrangements were made for two separate meetings, so that both propositions may be fully aired.

The Fort Smith parties will appear before Monday's meeting, which will start at promptly 3 o'clock p. m. They have a definite proposition to submit, and in order that the matter may be fully discussed the committee is anxious that every citizen who can possibly attend be on hand.

Big Men Coming

The men from Terre Haute, who will present their offer Tuesday afternoon, have a national reputation as water experts and their proposition will bear careful consideration in the opinion of the committee, which desires to bring the water question to a head but at the same time to decide upon a course that will be for the best interests of the whole city.

There is not a person in the city of Tulsa who is not vitally interested in the momentous question, and everyone is agreed that the entire future of the city rests upon the progress that is made in the immediate future in solving the problem.

The committee courts the co-operation of all citizens and to that end tries that every resident of the city make an effort to attend both of the meetings tomorrow and the next day, if anyone is absent it will come with poor grace later for him to criticize any action that may be taken at these meetings.

It is concluded by all that now is the time to act. The question has been discussed from every angle, and in addition to the possible sources of water supply that have been investigated or proposed the city is now confronted with various offers from individuals and private corporations, all of whom claim to be prepared to give Tulsa an adequate water supply at a

MAKE RESERVATIONS NOW FOR WORLD SPECIAL TO THE 'FRISCO EXPOSITION

PERSONS intending to visit the two expositions on the Pacific coast and see the beauties of America unfolded every minute before their wondering eyes are pouncing The World with inquiries as to the special train, which is to leave Tulsa for San Francisco on August 29. The full complement of passengers which the Tulsa section will carry is almost assured and The World desires to impress upon those who have expressed their intention of going to the coast the desirability of reserving their berths early so as to secure satisfactory accommodations. There are only so many lower berths in a car and when the supply of lowers is gone the rest of the passengers will have to take the uppers. Nor does The World desire to see the cars unduly crowded, and so by getting your reservations made now the management can provide extra cars, should they be necessary for the comfort and convenience of the travelers.

Never before in the history of Oklahoma have the people of any city had such an opportunity as is here presented to Tulsa. This is a hackneyed phrase, but it literally expresses the truth of the matter as nothing else does or can do. The straight fare to the coast right now is more than fifty dollars, and when you figure sleeping car accommodations, meals on the dinner, hotel and other incidentals, you have spent more than three hundred dollars, and can't tell where it has gone. And they go just one way and see but a little bit of the country. Travelers on The World train will traverse the states of Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Colorado, Kansas and just a wee corner of Texas to see the wonderful El Paso, which is neither American or Mexican, but a great deal of both, sitting at the foot of Mount McKinley, the gateway to the land of sunshine, the city where the clock stands still in the middle of the international bridge across the Rio Grande.

There is not such a panorama of mountain and plain, sea and desert to be seen anywhere else on this continent. The panorama of the canyon with their varicolored sides, orange and amber and pink and blue peering and melting away into the tender and soothing grays of twilight as it steals over the somber hills. Every variety of climate known to mankind, from the barrenness of sagebrush and alkali wastes to the regions of eternal snow, opens its attractive arms for all those who view the stupendous and awe-inspiring grandeur of nature with reverent and sympathetic mind. Most of it, of course, such has been the care in preparing the itinerary, comes the daylight, in the waning, winsome high lights of dawn and the appealing, sensuous softening tints of the lovers' twilight hour. You have the moon spreading a flood of silver over the mountain tops and the same old moon kissing the tops of the rolling billows of the world's greatest ocean.

Every appointment on the train is of the finest. It is strictly a de luxe train for discriminating people, for the people who know, for the people who are used to such things, who appreciate the comforts and the luxuries of the home while going across the continent. The fare for the round-trip, including hotel fare at San Francisco, dining cars and sleeping car fares, is $135. There will be an observation car all the way.

open the railroad lines from Mexico City to the north and northeast toward Torreon and San Luis Potosi and transportation will be furnished into the state of Michoacan, where the government has stored 230,000 bushels of corn.

Talk of Elections. In addition to these emergency measures, an outline of the plans upon which General Carranza will base his claim for recognition was presented. This includes removal of the seat of his government from Vera Cruz to Mexico City. It will not be done, however, until Gonzalez has the situation in and around Mexico City under complete control, probably not for two or three weeks. Municipal elections in the various states and the calling of an extra session of the Mexican congress to choose a provisional president would follow. Carranza's agents here maintain that he now is powerful enough to carry out his program and can demonstrate that such a government will be entitled to recognition by the United States.

General Carranza is said to be firmly resolved not to yield to any proposal for a peace conference which would necessitate a representative congress. He will not talk peace with Villa or Zapata, it is stated unless his adversaries first lay down their arms. What influence this outline of Carranza's purposes will have on the plans for dealing with the Mexican situation now being considered by President Wilson is not known here. Much may depend, it is said, on the result of the next week in Mexico. If Carranza succeeds in opening communication to Mexico City and carries out also his campaign against General Villa toward the north and northeast, it might serve to delay any contemplated action by the United States.

Villa and his adherents propose to do all in their power to avert the possibility of Carranza's receiving the moral support of the United States. To this end they have proposed the convening for consideration here that all factional leaders join in a peace conference, select a man for provisional president entitled to it under the constitution and then hold regular elections. If Carranza will not yield to this, they suggest that the United States support them in such a conference with him provided they can show that they represent a majority of the people.

It is between these two plans that the United States may be forced to find a middle ground for settling the Mexican situation without armed intervention.

Gerard May Buy a Big Land Tract. James W. Gerard, American ambassador at Berlin, wants to buy 25,000 acres of land in Oklahoma for use as a hunting preserve. He answered a want ad in a Chicago newspaper advertising Indian lands for sale in the southwest part of Oklahoma. Whether or not the ambassador is located in Oklahoma is not known, but he is in the market for a vast tract of land in this state shows that the eyes of thinking men the world over are turned upon the great state in the union.

Embassy of the United States of America, Berlin. Lawrence Hayworth, Esq., 301 Harvard Bldg., Corner Harrison and Michigan, Chicago, Ill. Dear Sir: I am interested in your advertisement in the Chicago Tribune of government lands in Oklahoma. I want to get a large place for shooting and amusement. The land there, for, does not seem to be fertile. But there must be some quite fertile land and some water—lake or stream. Want at least twenty or twenty-five thousand acres. Please send me maps and all particulars as soon as possible to address below.

Yours truly, JAMES W. GERARD, American Ambassador, Berlin, Germany. Care State Department, Washington, D. C.

No objection to his land, in fact, would like same. Also describe climate, etc.

Anticipating Good Horse Market. Special to The World. Colonel George McElroy, owner of a big ranch on Laguna creek, about four miles north of Oilton, is anticipating a good horse market and is stocking his ranch with horses. He now has 75 head on hand and is gradually adding to his herd. He believes that the sale of so many horses to the warring nations of Europe will soon cause the horse market to go the highest it has been in many years.

U. S. Note Spurs on the Carranzistas (Continued From Page One.) and immediately afterward news was received unofficially that the advance guard of Gonzalez's forces already had entered Mexico City. General Gonzalez will enter the city tomorrow with a larger force, the report said, civil government will be re-established and plans for relieving distress among the people formulated.

The Carranza agency issued this statement tonight: "Cable advices from Vera Cruz state that Carranza has hurried orders to General Pablo Gonzalez to reoccupy Mexico City with the greatest possible speed, in view of the reports in circulation with regard to the critical conditions in the capital, by reason of the shortage of foodstuffs. The orders include instructions to arrange for the immediate transportation of thousands of staple articles of food at the same time his troops enter the city."

Army and Navy Ready. Carranza's prompt response to insistence by the United States was regarded here as averting necessity for immediate action by this government to insure transportation of provisions to the Mexican capital. Administration officials had determined that provisions at Vera Cruz should be sent to the capital and General Carranza was told in the message Thursday night that if he could not handle the situation it would be necessary for the United States to act. Although no announcement was made of this government's plans it is known officers of the army and navy were ready to carry through a powerful program.

An outline of General Carranza's plan to reestablish order in Mexico City and for reestablishment of civil government was conveyed to the state department today. Strong intimations were made also that he soon would formally ask the United States to recognize a de facto government pending a constitutional election.

Provision trains will be started for the capital under heavy guard. In cooperation with General Obregon, General Gonzalez's troops will re-

DETENTION HOME ALMOST FINISHED

Mr. Welch, Humane Agent,
Lover of Children, Doing Good Work.

WILL HAVE OPENING

Children Will Prepare Program and Public Will Be Invited.

Tulsa's new detention home and baby camp now is practically completed and will be formally opened next week. The structure, near the old bungalow at Seventeenth and Spark streets, is considered wholly adequate to its purpose, and much good is expected to be done there. The home is under direction of the humane society and there now are many little folk harbored there who otherwise might be turned adrift.

Remarkable progress has been made on the new building, but the work has been done thoroughly. Therefore, when the home is opened it should be among the best of its kind in this part of the country.

Although there are several cities the size of Tulsa in which there are no detention homes, such institutions are necessary and have done a remarkable work. Thousands of children get a proper start in life, after being left alone through deaths of parents or other misfortune, while under the direction of home authorities, who generally are selected for their peculiar qualifications in this particular line of work. Therefore, good men and women are developed from boys and girls who otherwise probably would have been failures in life.

Welch a Good Man

A. M. Welch, humane agent, has devoted much time to the detention home, and it has been chiefly through his efforts that it has been made successful. Mr. Welch is a great lover of children, and his every hour is devoted to them and their lives. Where parents are found to be unfit to raise a boy or girl or both, Mr. Welch takes charge of them through an order of the court. Sometimes they are taken to the home, but more frequently are adopted to worthy families who make assurance of their being well cared for and properly raised.

There will be everything in the detention home necessary for little folk, while the surrounding grounds are adequate for the rearing of children, one of the chief necessities in child life. The dormitories are spacious, airy and will be kept scrupulously clean, while every other department was designed and built especially with the comfort and welfare of young folk in view.

It is the intention to prepare a program for the opening, and everybody is invited to make an inspection. The children probably will recite and play games for the entertainment of visitors. The baby camp, which is in connection with the home, is considered one of the best of its kind in the middle west, and through efforts of those in charge many little lives have been saved and the suffering mothers relieved of much anxiety.

MUSICIANS UNION HEARTILY THANKED

Rotary Officers Appreciate
Music for Detention Home Benefit.

The local musicians' union was heartily thanked for donating the services of a band at the Detention home benefit baseball game played here a week ago, in a communication sent to the organization yesterday by the Rotary club of Tulsa, under whose auspices the benefit was staged.

The letter follows: Tulsa Local No. 34, American Federation of Musicians, Tulsa, Okla. Gentlemen:

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary club of Tulsa, the members unanimously voted to extend to the members of your organization a vote of thanks for the services rendered at the Detention home benefit game of Saturday, July 24, 1915, to further the cause of the Rotary club baseball game for the benefit of the detention home. The Rotary club values very highly several members who are also members of your organization, and it is pleasant for the organization to work in harmony and union for the advancement of civic pride and charity. Your organization is to be complimented upon the public spirit it has manifested not only in its detention home ball game, but in other community enterprises. Kindly accept this letter as a token of appreciation of your valued cooperation and if at any time the Rotary club or its members can reciprocate, command us.

Fraternally yours, C. J. FRIEDMAN, Chairman entertainment committee. Attest: J. B. GIBBONS, Secretary.

were killed and two wounded in the engagement Thursday night in which the two American seamen lost their lives. Dismissing of the natives continued, he said, and quiet generally prevailed both at Port Au Prince and Cape Haitien, where American forces also are on guard. Political activity resulting from the overthrow of the Guillaume government, the report said, already had manifested itself.

There are many unemployed men in and around Port Au Prince, complicating the situation. Representations regarding the overthrow of the government and the killing of President Guillaume will not be made, it was officially stated today, until a new government is established.

As soon as possible, however, the United States is expected to renew its effort to negotiate a treaty whereby the United States would manage the everyone of the audience to see and hear distinctly, and will be elaborately decorated for the occasion with the national colors and seasonal flowers.

The Dedicatory Address.

The dedicatory address will be delivered by Judge Selden P. Spencer of St. Louis, recognized as among this country's foremost orators and who has held some of the highest positions at the disposal of the Y. M. C. A. He has been chairman of the national conventions of the association, member of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. college, and member of the international committee. He has formerly judge of the United States circuit court of appeals.

Always interested in the association's work, Judge Spencer undoubtedly is among the best posted laymen in the country. His address, therefore, is anxiously awaited by hundreds of people in Tulsa. Although he has seen many of the finest association buildings the country affords, he has one of the pleasantest surprises of his life in the Tulsa structure, and through him what has been accomplished here in a comparatively brief period is bound to receive much favorable advertising.

C. E. Buchner, secretary of the association, had made many attempts to bring Judge Spencer to Tulsa, but business affairs always have prevented. When he was put down for the dedicatory address, however, he assured Mr. Buchner he would be here, which insures Tulsa people against further disappointments. Those who are acquainted with this distinguished gentleman are loud in their praise of him.

The career of Judge Spencer is a good illustration of what under American institutions may be accomplished by the young men of pluck, energy and honorable purpose within a reasonably short time.
